MAIL AUCTION #7

CLOSING DATE DECEMBER 26, 1970

PRICES REALIZED $1.00

Here's another wide selection of tokens and medals for the beginning and advanced collector. Again, rarities abound and it will be worth your time to scan this list carefully. As usual, purchasers of over $100 may pay their invoice in two equal monthly installments. There is no charge for this privilege. I attempt to grade all lots with a conservative approach. I reserve the right to reject all bids which I consider ridiculous. IMPORTANT NOTE: I will be away for a few days both before and after the closing date of this auction. Therefore I will be unable to accept last minute phone bids.

IMPORTANT - PLAN YOUR ESTATE

The recent death of three of my customers prompts me to say a few words about planning for the disposition of your token collection after death.
The following is based upon my experience as a dealer-collector of tokens and as an attorney.

If your spouse or children are interested in keeping your collection, you have relatively few problems. It is where your collection is to be disposed of that problems arise. This is especially so if your survivors have little or no idea of the value of your collection. What usually happens is that the collection is sold far below what it is worth to a coin dealer who, himself, has only a vague idea of the worth of what he is buying.
Token collecting is an extremely specialized field with a relatively thin and widely dispersed market.
In my opinion, the best method of disposing of such a collection is to consign it to a reputable dealer who runs regular mail auctions on whatever specialized material is involved. If you think that this idea makes sense, you should immediately inform your spouse or children of your wishes and provide them with the name of the person to whom the material should be consigned. Another alternative would be to execute a codicil to your will instructing your executor to follow this plan. If you plan to retain the collection in your family DO NOT have it appraised by a token expert. This will almost always result in a higher valuation than if the appraisal was made by a general dealer in coins. The higher the valuation the more the estate and inheritance taxes!
